Understanding Mountain Bikers

Who are mountain bikers - what makes them different as a target market?

- Mostly male (however women increasing)
- Between the ages of 25-59
- Relatively affluent with high household incomes and generally well educated
- Participate frequently and over the long term
- 44% travel monthly to ride. 1-4 trips per year for 1-2 days or 3+ extended stays. Travel up to 4 hrs. High spending: $2540 in Tas (av.$1920)
- Group make up varies depending on type of riding and can be couples, groups of friends and/or family.

Not ALL riders are created equal

- LEISURE: THE GENERAL CYCLIST
- ENTHUSIAST: THE RECREATIONAL RIDER
- GRAVITY: THE ADRENALINE SEEKER
- INDEPENDENT: THE ADVENTURER
- SPORT: THE RACER

Who are mountain bikers - what makes them different as a target market?

LEISURE: THE GENERAL CYCLIST

Leisure riders are general cyclists of all ages and abilities and potentially represent the largest market. They ride infrequently, have limited skills and prefer very accessible routes close to home, or trail centres. They are likely to try mountain biking whilst on holidays.

Who are mountain bikers - what makes them different as a target market?

ENTHUSIAST: THE RECREATIONAL RIDER

Enthusiasts are recreational mountain bikers with moderate skills and variable fitness, and ride weekly. They are the existing market majority, prefer trails with good trail signs and seek technical trails. They are most likely to take short breaks to different areas.

Who are mountain bikers - what makes them different as a target market?

GRAVITY: THE ADRENALINE SEEKER

Gravity riders are highly skilled technical riders who seek very challenging trails, ride at least once a week and are often members of clubs. They require purpose built trails often with an uplift facility, which are repeatedly used in a concentrated manner. They seek specific trails with the highest classifications.

Who are mountain bikers - what makes them different as a target market?

INDEPENDENT: THE ADVENTURER

Independent riders are skilled outdoor enthusiasts who ride once a week and are technically proficient with a good level of fitness. They are capable of planning their own rides and ride a very wide variety of trail classifications. Independent riders seek more remote trails, and adventure is more important than technical challenge.

SPORT: THE RACER

Sport riders are competitive mountain bikers, who ride regular routes multiple times a week. They are generally members of mountain bike clubs. They are willing to seek less accessible trails, have a high fitness level and are technically proficient

WELCOME TO MOUNTAIN BIKE NAROOMA

Hi, our club established in 2016 right before bushfires and COVID. The exciting news was that we were successful with a Government BLEER grant which is enabling us to add 60kms of singletrack trail to our existing network. Dirt Art are the contractors and are building now with an expected opening date around May 2023.

We have established a club calendar of events and all are promoted on our Facebook and Instagram pages, we require that everyone joins Auscycling to be able to join our club.

We are all volunteers building and maintaining trails so any help either financial or physical is always appreciated.

We have some really great sponsors and if you would like to be part of our sponsorship programme please visit our sponsor page.
